LinkedIn: Ana María Castro

Ana María became a Partner at Lloreda Camacho & Co. in 2009 and is the director of the Life Sciences practice while also co-leading the Intellectual Property practice with a focus on patents. She is a lawyer from Universidad del Rosario, with a postgraduate degree in Commercial Law from Universidad Javeriana, a second specialization in Law and New Life Science Technologies from Universidad Externado de Colombia, and certifications in Administrative Procedural Law and Unfair Competition.

With over 20 years of experience, Ana María has managed and advised on extensive patent portfolios for multinational and local companies across diverse technological sectors.

She is particularly recognized for her expertise in the pharmaceutical industry and her guidance on biotechnology-related matters. Her core areas of expertise include patents, industrial designs, plant varieties, and patent litigation. Ana María also has substantial experience in regulatory matters, data protection, and handling significant litigation cases before Colombia's High Courts, as well as managing patent infringement actions.

Ana María is recognized by the most prominent global directories, including, among others, Chambers and Partners, which ranks her as a Band 1 lawyer; Legal500, which lists her in the Hall of Fame for lawyers in Colombia; and IAM Patent, which rates her as a Gold-tier lawyer in Colombia.
